CHAIR'S NOTES

At the recent AGM the Trustees repeated their plea for more members to join our group who work to make sure that the U3A works well, that meetings are held, rooms booked, finances sorted and that we meet all our legal requirements. So far, no-one has expressed an interest!

I wonder why? There are a few thoughts I had on this:

If you've already done a stint as a Trustee (which is only an alternative word for a committee member) then you can relax, knowing that you have done your bit for this U3A. We're grateful for your past work, and won't expect more from you.

If you're not sure what being a Trustee entails – then you can come along to observe a meeting to see what happens, or you could ask any committee member about the role.

If you don't see yourself as "a committee person" – then you'd fit in very well: we're a very disparate group of varied individuals with varied backgrounds.

If you're worried about how much time it would take up, keeping you away from other hobbies and U3A interests, then you might want to know we meet just eight times a year for a two hour meeting. Of course there are some things to be done in between meetings, and some Trustees have taken on great responsibilities – but there is actually something very satisfying about being at the heart of such a large group as Malvern U3A and helping to make sure it works well.

We really do need people who are in the U3A not just for themselves but also for others, who want to put something back into the U3A. As our U3A has grown, to over one hundred groups and nearly 1500 members, an active and full group of Trustees is more important.

Although our constitution says we only have to have five Trustees, we ideally need a larger group to share the decision making. There are a number of specific roles which need to be filled, as well as people "without portfolio" who will contribute their ideas and energy to how our U3A works.

We specifically would like to find a Visiting Speakers' Organiser (so if you haven't been interested in the speakers that we have invited, then by all means step forward to find speakers whom you will find interesting) and someone as Assistant Membership secretary to help Robin Clarke with the membership tasks. It'd be good to find someone who would enjoy organising social events such as the Quiz we had last year.

One aspect of our Constitution is that committee members are not allowed to be Trustees/Committee members for more than five years. (This is to stop the U3A being run by a perpetual clique!) The downside of this is that we need to have new blood from time to time, hence this plea to you all.

If we don't have new committee members coming forward to share the work, then, in the worst possible scenario, this U3A will not be able to continue. No more meetings, no shared interests, no new friends, and all our funds reverting to the national Third Age Trust. Please give this some thought, and contact any of the current Trustees if you are interested in finding out more.

Thank you for reading this!

Pam Stanier

Malvern U3A AGM – some information

At the November AGM three motions were put to the meeting by the Trustees. Two were passed: an additional section on our membership form setting out expectations of members; the other to raise the annual subscription to £14 from September 2017, on the recommendation of our Treasurer.

The third motion was to re-word section 2 of our constitution about the Objects of the U3A. This had been recommended to the Trustees by the Third Age Trust national office, so that all U3As have the same objects.

Although this was passed by a majority, the Trustees had overlooked section 10 of our constitution which says that certain clauses in our constitution may not be amended at all. The Trustees will consider the implications of this and consult the National office.

Speakers' Corner

Malvern U3A has received a 'thank-you' letter from Hannah Bradford on behalf of Help for Heroes thanking us for our donation of £371.19 following a talk at our monthly meeting by one of their members. Hannah explains that " at least 66,090 of the 757,805 people who served as Regulars in the British Armed Forces between 1991 and 2014 will need our support either now, or in the future".

Christmas Lunch

..... get your diaries out now!

Malvern U3A Christmas lunch last December was at The Worcestershire Golf Club and as usual I think they did us proud. They offer the traditional Turkey and all the trimmings but there is always fish and a vegetarian option so I hope everyone enjoyed it as much as I did. I cooked for 6 on Christmas day and can't imagine what cooking for 65 must be like! Sharon & Michael, the chefs at the club, are so obliging if there are different dietary requirements too. Thank-you to all those that contributed gifts for the raffle.

2017 is already booked for FRIDAY 15th DECEMBER. May I take this opportunity to wish you all a happy & healthy 2017.

Geology Group

It's a quiet time of the year for outdoor activities in the geology group but some hardy souls are still carrying out useful work. One of our members, John Payne, in his role within the Earth Heritage Trust, organises works parties throughout the year to clear geologically interesting sites for both the AONB and the Conservators. This work mostly consists of clearing undergrowth in order to expose interesting rock features within the area for the benefit of visitors with a geology interest. The volunteer workers come from geological groups within the area including the U3A. The latest session was at the Upper Wyche Quarry just above the Earnslaw Quarry. The exposure that was tackled is a good example of granite and granite like rocks with a fault plane running diagonally across the face in question. The exposure was difficult to see, hidden both by saplings growing in front of it as well as the ubiquitous moss on the face itself. The before and after photos show the fruits of the group's labours.

Understanding Ourselves

"Know thyself." The ancient Greeks were on to it, as were countless other philosophers down the ages. However, there's no need to visit Greece or any other mystical location for enlightenment, for thanks to the U3A mutual self-improvement ethos there's a homely setting in the Malvern Hills where the selfsame philosophical quest can be explored and mused upon.

And so it was on a recent November weekend that twelve Third Agers of an enquiring frame of mind were invited to experience a reflective, realistic and refreshingly jargon-free approach to how we think, feel and act as our authentic selves.

The strength of the model lies in its exposure to a gentler, more inclusive and compassionate perspective on being human. Personality types are regarded as equally similar and different, individual attributes viewed and experienced as gifts.

The course was supported by ample, thoughtfully produced material to be retained for reference and reflection.

Our thanks go to John and Elizabeth Staley for their generosity of time, commitment and hospitality.

Welsh Culture Group

On Friday, October 21st 2016, the nation remembered the South Wales mining village of Aberfan.

Fifty years previously, on Friday October 21st 1966 at a few minutes past 9 o'clock in the morning, 150,000 tons of pit waste slid from Tip No 7. As it descended upon the village it inundated a farm, eighteen terraced houses and Pant Glas ("Green Hollow") Junior School.

144 lives ended in the space of two or three minutes, 28 of them were elderly people, housewives at home-some with young children and miners not working the morning shift.

The remaining 116 were school children 8 to 10 years old. They had just begun the last day before the following week's half-term holiday; their last school day.

Wales has seen many – too many – mining tragedies and in all of them the price of coal was paid for in miners' lives. But this one was different – the greater part of the cost was borne by children.

Malvern U3A Welsh Culture group marked the 50th anniversary of the disaster at its October meeting by presenting "A Remembrance of Aberfan" in music, images, poetry and prose.

At the beginning members listened to a recording of the Welsh harpist, Catrin Finch, playing "Silent Noon" by the composer Ralph Vaughan Williams. Two accounts of that appalling day, written by group members, were then read aloud, followed by the playing of a recording of the children of Pwllgwenly Junior School singing "We are Children Born to the Valleys".

After this introduction 12 members – 6 women, 6 men – read aloud extracts from "The Village that Lost Its Children" by the poet and writer Laurie Lee. In late autumn 1966, or soon after, he was commissioned to visit Aberfan and record his observations in writing for the magazine "The Redbrook". This he did, and the piece was published by Penguin books in 1967, and again in 1977, as part of his "I Can't Stay Long" collection of various items written down the years. It deserves wider recognition as a beautifully written tribute to Aberfan and its people.

Throughout the readings and musical interludes, images of Aberfan before, during and after the catastrophe, were shown at appropriate moments, perhaps the most powerful one being that of the school clock retrieved from the slurry with its hands stopped at 9.13.

The programme ended with the playing of a recording by Aled Jones of an exquisite Welsh lullaby "Suo Gan". As we listened, we watched a series of photographs taken on a bright summer day a few months previously, of the lovely and immaculately tended "Memorial Gardens" created on the site of Pant Glas School, and also the awesome monumental rows of graves where most of the children lie. The hillside cemetery overlooks a green and pleasant valley through which flows the River Taff on its way down to Cardiff.

No trace of any of the seven tips which once towered threateningly over Aberfan is to be seen. All of them were removed within a few years of the tragedy – a few years too late.

Recorder Group

From our humble beginnings in November 2014 when six of us met at the Cube, we are now a thriving group with 24 on the register. Meeting twice a month on the first and third Thursday afternoons, we are an informal, friendly group, who just enjoy making music together.

The majority of us hadn't played recorder since primary school, whilst some were already quite experienced players.

Our group now also comprises players who came along as beginners. Through their own hard work, and the support of the group in the form of separate beginner's sessions, and one-to-one mentoring, they are now able to join in with the main group. Others in the group have learned to play another type of recorder, and we had separate "lessons" to promote this.

We play a wide range of music and have bass, tenor, treble and descant players.

Recently we put together a varied performance for the Sight Concern group at their bi-monthly meeting held at Christ Church Hall in Great Malvern.

Our programme spanned the centuries, incorporating Renaissance music from the 1500s, through to the 1960s Lennon/McCartney piece "When I'm 64". It included Ragtime, Latin-American and some well known classical pieces - like Eine Kleine Nachtmusik and Bach's Air on a G-String.

The afternoon was very well attended, and well received. Afterwards we were served with a delicious high tea with sandwiches, cakes and biscuits and a very large pot of tea, all of which was much appreciated by us all. They said they'd like us to come back again, which we look forward to doing.

We're hoping to do more performances during the coming year, and are also very happy to welcome new members who can come along and have a go on our spare instruments. We can help non-music readers too.

Cycling group

The U3A cycling group continues to expand its membership and programme of rides. Electric bikes are proving increasingly popular so that everyone is able to participate regardless of ride length or number of hills. Membership now exceeds the 50 mark and recent rides have attracted between 16 and 24 riders. We meet on the first and third Wednesdays of the month and rides tend to cover anything from 20 to 40 miles, terminating with the essential pub lunch. Next June we will be visiting the East Midlands on a 4 day 'tour'. This will be the fifth 'tour' and the first one to attract over 20 participants.

We already have ride leaders to see us through to next June. If the weather is fine this is an excellent way to explore the lanes and byways of the three counties.

Anyone wanting to join the cycling group can do so by e-mailing me your intention. Similarly do write to me if you need further information.

Genealogy & Family History Group

Celebrating 21 years with leader Eugene Colwell.

Eugene founded the Genealogy & Family History Group in September 1995 with the first meeting taking place at the former Malvern Youth Centre, (Malvern Cube).

We have been lucky to have Eugene leading our group all of these years, guiding us with his wide knowledge of the publishing trade and his personal experience of research techniques. Although he is handing over his leadership to a new committee, we are glad to know that he still intends to come to meetings when able, as a regular member and friend, and of course, he will always be warmly welcomed! We would all like to thank him for his energy, enthusiasm and humour (and patience!) over the years.

The photograph shows a busy meeting of our Family History and Genealogy Group on Tuesday November 8th, at Malvern Baptist Church hall, when the theme was "Layouts and Displays". For this, we all brought in our files, albums or family-trees-in-progress, to share with others and it gave us a chance to exchange ideas, chat about our successes or "brick walls" and help one another, in what was a lively, interesting and informative meeting.

New members are always welcome. Phone Gwen Evans on 01684 - 491 564
